

Machine Learning is a subset of Artificial Intelligence.
It enables machines to learn from data without being explicitly programmed.
Supervised Learning uses labeled data.
Unsupervised Learning uses unlabeled data.
Deep Learning uses neural networks.